Working Families Tax Credit (WFTC) FAQs

What is the Washington Working Families Tax Credit (WFTC)?

The WFTC is a tax refund that helps Washington workers, get more money back at tax time. The purpose of the WFTC is to stimulate the local economy and support the financial stability and well-being of low-to-moderate income Washington residents.

2025 marks the 3rd year this refundable tax credit is available to claim, and the maximum refund this year is $1,290.

Who can qualify for this tax credit?

Despite the name, people do NOT need to have children to qualify for the WFTC. Households with or without children are eligible.

The Working Families Tax Credit has similar eligibility requirements to the federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) – with a few differences. To check eligibility, go to WFTC.wa.gov and click on the blue: "See if you qualify" button.

How do people apply for the WFTC?

The WFTC application is separate from the federal income tax filing. All free tax preparation assistance services in WA will do the WFTC at the same time as the federal filing. Many online tax filing options include the WFTC application now, but not ALL. The WFTC application is available online in English and Spanish at: WFTC.wa.gov/apply. People will need their 1040 tax return for the corresponding tax year to do the WFTC application.

Anyone needing help with their WFTC application can contact PIM Savvy or Workforce Snohomish for assistance.

What can people do if they missed applying for WFTC in previous years?

People can apply for up to 3 previous years of the WFTC at any time. The WFTC application is open all year long. If anyone needs help applying for previous years or isn't sure if they applied for previous years, they can contact Workforce Snohomish or PIM Savvy for assistance.

Why do we KEEP talking about the WFTC all the time?

The WFTC and the Federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) are both roughly 50% under-claimed, meaning that about half of the people eligible to receive them are not applying for them. One major reason for this is that people with income under a certain amount are not required to file their federal taxes - however, they are probably eligible for the EITC and the WFTC so they should file so they can receive these funds. AND, they can get free tax filing assistance from PIM Savvy.

Bottom line - We want all Washingtonians to get every tax refund dollar they are entitled to!
